

Spring 2017 - Brown Bag Lecture Series

Council on Archaeological Studies at Yale

January 27, 2017 Co-sponsored with the Yale Maya Lecture Series

Megan O'Neil, Associate Curator

Art of the Ancient Americas Department, Los Angeles County Museum of Art

“Bodies Transformed: The Art of Ancient Maya Carved Bones”

February 3, 2017 Co-sponsored with the Yale Maya Lecture Series

Andrew Turner, Post-Doctoral Fellow

Yale University Art Gallery

“A Reexamination of Interregional Interaction between Cacaxtla, Xochicalco, and the Maya Lowlands”

February 10, 2017

Parker VanValkenburgh, Assistant Professor

Department of Anthropology, Brown University

“Building Indios: Diet, Daily Life and Political Subjectivity at Carrizales, Peru 12th-16th centuries CE”

February 17, 2017

David Killick, Professor

Department of Anthropology, University of Arizona

“Gold or Iron? Comparing the production and uses of metals in the Andes and in sub-Saharan Africa before 1500 CE”

February 24, 2017

Judith Zeitlin, Professor

Department of Anthropology, University of Massachusetts, Boston

“Materiality and Appropriation: Perspectives on the Archaeology of Colonialism from the Southern Isthmus of Tehuantepec, Mexico”

March 3, 2017 Co-sponsored with the Yale Maya Lecture Series

Zachary Hruby, Lecturer

Department of Anthropology, Northern Kentucky University

“Symbolic and Technological Interpretation of the Stromsvik Macroblade Cache at Copan, Honduras”

March 10, 2017

Vincent Van Thienen, Post-doctoral Researcher

Department of Anthropology, Yale University

April 7, 2017 Co-sponsored with the Yale Maya Lecture Series

Robert Rosenswig, Associate Professor

Department of Anthropology, University at Albany - SUNY

“Rise and Fall of the Izapa Kingdom”

April 14, 2017

Lakshmi Ramgopal, Visiting Assistant Professor

Department of Classics, Trinity College

“Consuming Greek, Excreting Latin: Parodying Wisdom in the Seven Sages Fresco at Ostia.”

April 21, 2017

Tunde Babalola, McMillan-Stewart Fellow

Hutchins Center for African & African American Research, Harvard University

“Archaeological Research in Ile-Ife, Nigeria: New Insights on Glass Making/Working in an Early West African Society.”

April 28, 2017

Peter Coutros, PhD Candidate

Department of Anthropology, Yale University

“The Tale the River Tells”